Counting My Chickens And Other Home Thoughts

“I want my wife.” “Well, you shall have her!” “Then,” said the blackbird, “you and I are at war.” He began to beat his drum: rat-tat-tat. The king laughed to his servants. “Take this cheeky bird to the hen-house and throw him in. The chickens will have pecked him to pieces by morning.” So the blackbird was locked inside the hen-house. Straightaway he called the fox, who ...
